Saul Alinsky: "8-steps to Create a Socialist State"

Who was Saul Alinsky? He was an American community organizer and writer. He is often noted for his book Rules for Radicals (1971) and his "8-steps to topple a nation and create a Socialist State"

Read each one and compare it with the political policies of the Clinton, Obama and Biden Administrations, which Harris will be following. This is the bedrock of the American Socialist Democratic Party.

They not only want to control you, they want to OWN you!

- 1) Healthcare: Control Healthcare and you control the people.
- 2) Poverty: Increase the taxes, and this will produce more poverty.
- 3) Debt: Increase the debt to an unsustainable level. That way you are able to increase taxes, and this will produce more poverty.
- 4) Gun Control: Remove the ability to defend themselves from the Government. That way you are able to create a police state.
- 5) Welfare: Take control of every aspect of their lives (Food, Housing, and Income).
- 6) Education: Take control of what people read and listen to – take control of what children learn in school.
- 7) Religion: Remove the belief in God from the Government and schools.
- 8) Class Warfare: Divide the people into the wealthy and the poor, the White privileged. This will cause more discontent and it will be easier take (Tax) the wealthy with the support of the poor.

Op-Ed: Harris and Walz will Clone America into California

"I believe in that old adage that as goes California, so goes the rest of the country." - Kamala Harris

Opinion by William Haupt III | The Center Square contributor

When Harris named Minnesota Gov. Tim Walz as her vice presidential nominee, the Democrats were thrilled since he looks like someone who'd be at home on a tractor, sporting a straw hat while tending to his crops. The left believes his facade will persuade moderate and middle-class voters to move left and support Democrats in November. But, the left is counting chickens before they hatch.

Everyone already knows that Harris hails from the progressive bastion of progressive California. As a U.S. senator she gained the reputation as the most liberal member of the Senate in her first term. Harris' record speaks for itself. She cast the most tie-breaking votes in Senate history to green-light the Democrats' most radical, inflationary priorities. Her votes led to trillions of dollars of runaway spending by Democrats and the confirmation of many radical activist progressive federal judges.

The primary goal of the American Indian Reporter is to increase the knowledge of the American Indian people & our non-Indian friends of the evil plans of the American Marxist AKA Demo/Socialist. Most Tribal people under the age of 65 don't know what life is like to live under the total control of the U.S. Government of their Reservations. For starters, forget per capita if you're from a gaming tribe as all the money would go to the Government to decide what's best for you. From 1936 to 1978 the U.S. Government refuse to allow my people to have a domestic water system because we refused to give up our water rights. That is just one example of the evils bestowed upon Tribal Folks. I fear for my family, fellow tribal people and non-Indian friends for their lack of knowledge of big Government controlled by non-elected Marxist which control the elected officials. Should HARRIS get enough illegal migrants, voting machine & lack of knowledge votes it's game over. MY VIEW Ernie Salgado

A federal judge temporarily halted the enforcement of a Biden-Harris administration rule in five states on Thursday designed to reduce methane emissions and minimize natural gas waste on federal lands.

U.S. District Court Judge Daniel Traynor issued a preliminary injunction that temporarily blocks the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) from enforcing a new rule that was implemented in April in North Dakota, Montana, Texas, Wyoming and Utah, according to The Hill. These states argued that the federal rule, which mandates oil and gas companies to implement waste reduction plans and leak detection programs on public lands, constitutes an overreach of federal authority, infringing upon state rights.

Republican North Dakota Gov. Doug Burgum lauded the court's temporary injunction, accusing the Biden administration of overreaching on federal land oil and gas production regulations.

Swift endorsement turns more voters from Harris than it attracts: poll

A new post-debate poll from YouGov released Saturday found that 8% of voters said the pop superstar's nod is either "somewhat" or "much more likely" to convince them to cast their ballot for the Democrat. But a whopping 20% said they are "somewhat" or "much less likely" to vote for former President Donald Trump's opponent now that Swift has spoken.

Most of the respondents, 66%, said Swift's endorsement made no difference on how they will vote in November.

It might not be such a "Love Story" after all.

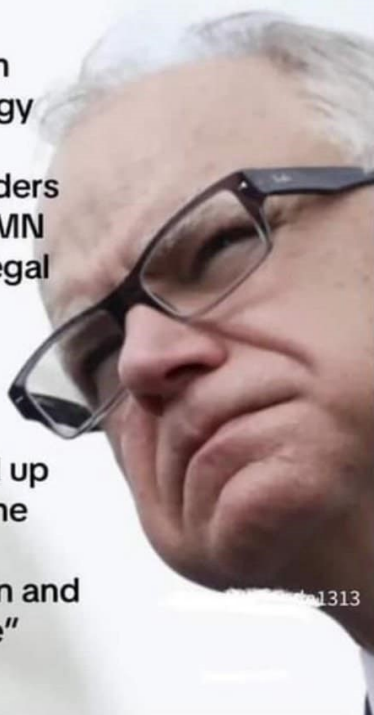

Taylor Swift's endorsement of Vice President Kamala Harris and her running mate, Minnesota Gov. Tim Walz, may turn more voters away than it attracts.

The majority — 32% of the online poll's respondents — think the move will have a positive effect on Harris' campaign, while 27% said they don't think it'll have an effect either way.

Gold Hits All-Time High Amid Weak Dollar and Easing Inflation; Silver Follows Suit Sept. 30, 2020 $1,887.79 * Sept. 14, 2024 $2,583.37

Read More @ The Jerusalem Post

Gold prices (XAU/USD) surged to an all-time high of $2,583.37 during Friday's (Sept. 13, 2024) European session, driven by a weaker U.S. Dollar and falling Treasury yields. The rally follows Thursday's softer-than-expected U.S. Producer Price Index (PPI) report, which signaled easing inflationary pressures. Investors are increasingly speculating that the Federal Reserve will implement a significant interest rate cut in September, bolstering the appeal of non-yielding assets like gold.

strikes in Gaza, which have killed dozens of Palestinians, including United Nations staff, have heightened geopolitical instability. As conflicts escalate, gold's status as a safe-haven asset becomes even more attractive to global investors seeking refuge from uncertainty.

Beyond economic data, ongoing geopolitical tensions in the Middle East and the prolonged conflict between Russia and Ukraine are also contributing to the gold's bullish momentum. Israeli air-

Silver prices (XAG/USD) continued their upward trend, reaching $30.64, a gain of 2.57% during Friday's session. Silver's rise is supported by increasing industrial demand, particularly from the renewable energy sector, where silver is crucial in solar panel production. Additionally, rate cut expectations from the Federal Reserve are also fueling the metal's appeal as a non-yielding asset.

11K noncitizen registered voters could tip the presidential race in Nevada: GOP lawsuit

LAS VEGAS — As many as 11,000 noncitizens are registered to vote in the crucial swing state of Nevada because Democratic Secretary of State Francisco "Cisco" Aguilar is ignoring his duty to keep voting rolls clean, a lawsuit alleges.

more than 11,000 noncitizens are registered to vote this year — and an estimated 3,700+ will cast a ballot in November's presidential election.

The Trump campaign, the Republican National Committee and the Nevada GOP filed suit Thursday against Aguilar in Carson City judicial district court, total of 6,360 individuals listed in the Nevada's Department of Motor Vehicles "noncitizen file" were registered to vote in 2020 — and 3,987 of them cast a ballot in that year's general election, the lawsuit says.

Nevada became an "all mail-in" voting state in 2022 — registered voters are automatically sent ballots — though early-voting locations are opened to let people cast ballots in person. This year, 98.4% of primary ballots were mailed in Republican Adam Laxalt lost his US Senate race to Democrat Catherine Cortez Masto by 8,000 votes in 2022 — roughly four votes per precinct.

Such close results have the GOP intent on purging rolls of ineligible voters.

William Banegas, 84; kept old Indian ways and new

By Ed Jahn
STAFF WRITER

As one of the last elders of the Capitan Grande Indians, William Banegas represented a way of life that was almost destroyed in 1932 when the band was moved off its reservation to make way for the El Capitan dam and reservoir.

Mr. Banegas kept many of the old ways, but he was part of the modern world as well. During the years he worked as a heavy equipment operator, he helped build many of the county's back roads and several major dams and reservoirs.

William Banegas

"In his early years, he was a real cowboy who worked cattle, branded and roped and was a part of major roundups," said his daughter, Barbara Turner. "In many ways, he was the last of a generation."

Mr. Banegas died Sunday at an El Cajon hospital after a heart attack. He was 84.

"He always said he loved his home along the river," his daughter said of Mr. Banegas' youth along the San Diego River at its eastern fork, Conejos Creek. "But he remembered it as hot and he liked living up at Barona where the weather was cooler."

As a young man, he helped move the graves of his ancestors out of the way of the earthmovers grading the new reservoir, his daughter said.

"Every year, he would have us pack a lunch and as a family we would go down there to visit."

Until 1941, Mr. Banegas was a member of the professional rodeo circuit, specializing in saddle bronco riding. Later, he helped manage livestock used in Southern California rodeos.

Mr. Banegas became a member of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and operated various types of heavy equipment used in road building and major construction projects in the county.

"He loved to hunt all his life, especially deer hunting. And he liked to play the games from long ago," his daughter said. "He never forgot the old ways and the traditions. He always respected them."

Survivors include seven sons, James Banegas, Leonard Banegas Sr., Alan Banegas, Toby Brown, Billy Brown, Steven Banegas and Michael Banegas; seven daughters, Mary Whiespeare, Catherine Hosbo, Margret Cruz, Barbara Turner, Josephine Perez, Roxann Banegas and Robyn Reed; a brother, Albert Phoenix; 63 grandchildren; 42 great-grandchildren, and four great-great-grandchildren.

A wake will be held at 5 p.m. tomorrow at 116 Barona Road, Lakeside. A funeral Mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Barona Catholic Church with burial to follow at Barona Cemetery.

Tragic case of suspected domestic violence underscores need for changes to Native American missing persons alert and tribal law enforcement authority

San Bernardino—Assemblymember James C. Ramos (D-San Bernardino) today expressed his condolences to the family of a missing Morongo Band of Mission Indians tribal member and concern about issues expressed by her family involving the investigation into her case.

"I wish to send my condolences to the family of Amy Porter whose family found her on Sunday morning in a desert area near the side of Interstate 10 in Yucaipa. It is my hope that the investigation is thorough and conducted in an appropriately timely manner." He added, "I also hope that my legislation is signed to clarify and improve use of the Feather Alert and public safety on tribal lands." The Feather Alert is a public alert system similar to an AMBER or Silver alert and is overseen by the California Highway Patrol (CHP). It is used in the state when Native American are missing.

Porter's family had been searching for her for a week and had requested the use of the Feather Alert and a more speedy law enforcement search. Family and friends eventually launched their own search.

Ramos observed, "Ms. Porter's family has raised questions about the delay in initiating the investigation into her disappearance and why the Feather Alert was not employed more quickly." The lawmaker added, that he authored three bills, now before the governor, that sought to address the questions raised by family members. The measures are:

AB 1863 which seeks to streamline the Feather Alert requesting process and would allow a California Tribe to directly request the public alert and would require that the CHP respond to a law enforcement agency or tribe's request to activate a Feather Alert within 48 hours of receiving the request. The Feather Alert has been active since Jan. 1, 2023, and California was the third state to enact the public alert. Ramos authored the legislation in 2022 that created the notification system here in California. Proposed changes to the Feather Alert were made in consultation with tribal leaders, CHP, Department of Justice (DOJ) and local government representatives. Ramos held roundtable discussions around the state and an informational hearing to increase awareness about the new program and hear from stakeholders about how the system was working and what changes would make it more effective. That hearing was followed by further discussions with tribes and law enforcement.

AB 2138 would create a three-year pilot program allowing tribal law enforcement under specified conditions to obtain state peace officer status. Ramos, in an op-ed this spring, and at a roundtable discussion with tribes, lawmakers, and researchers heard why peace officer status would increase public safety on tribal reservations and their neighboring communities. A federal law known as Public Law 280 (PL 280) enacted in 1953 withdrew federal responsibility, in large part, for public safety on tribal lands. In the op-ed, Ramos wrote that PL 280 "eliminated federal support for law enforcement and courts, except for limited and specified expenditures. This has resulted in widespread confusion among tribal, local and state law enforcement agencies." Peace officer status for tribal law enforcement officers would hasten response times and give greater investigatory power to tribes for criminal cases occurring on reservations often located in rural and isolated areas.

•AB 2695 would require the DOJ to collect and disaggregate domestic violence crime data so the state can better determine the scope of the Missing and Murdered Indigenous People (MMIP) crisis from the information that local law enforcement submits to DOJ. If AB 2695 is approved, local law enforcement would be required to note whether the crime was committed on tribal land. California is fifth in the nation in the numbers of MMIP unresolved and uninvestigated cases. Ramos stated, "While Ms. Porter's case did not occur on tribal lands, she was a tribal member and her case may have involved domestic violence. It is important for us to understand the when and where about crimes as well as the who so that we can respond more effectively and proactively to increase safety."

Assemblymember James C. Ramos proudly represents the 45th Assembly district that includes the Cities of Fontana, Highland, Mentone, Redlands, Rialto and San Bernardino. He is the first and only California Native American serving in the state's legislature. Ramos chairs the Assembly Budget Subcommittee #6 on Public Safety.

'Kia Kamala': New ride named for Harris is unveiled, critics agree it's NOT a smart car

A new "ad" is using humor to expose Vice to expose Vice President Kamala Harris' abysmal record. After being effectively promoted to Democrat presidential nominee, it seems that the media has completely forgotten Harris's word salad, painful cackling, and lies. The ad promotes the "Kia Kamala," an electric vehicle described as "the first car to go from zero to nominee in zero votes!" Clips of the vice president are sprinkled throughout the ad, with the first one being a

"The Kamala is affordable because it's made with cheap foreign labor that came here illegally," the narrator says. "And while it looks small on the outside, the interior's as roomy as a big yellow school bus."

Since Americans have started waking up to the reality of our country's illegal immigration problem, politicians, activists and cable news pundits have tried to quell the masses with slogans like "Immigration makes us stronger," and "Illegal immigration is a victimless crime." While these Orwellian messages may have worked in the past, they are failing hard now as people contrast them with their daily experiences and see a nation's culture, opportunities and security slipping away.

If the last three-plus years have proven anything, it is that uncontrolled mass migration does not make us stronger and is most definitely not a victimless crime. Despite a dedicated corporate media reframing of the crisis, millions of U.S. citizens and legal residents have lost jobs, property, security and even their lives as a result of our ruling class's agenda to import the world's poverty problem here.

While stories of outrageous criminal activity by illegal aliens dominate the headlines in alternative media, far less attention is paid to the impact on Americans' job prospects caused by adding roughly 10 million foreign nationals to the population in just a few years.

The problem was brought into focus recently by the Bureau of Labor Statistics' report which showed that native-born Americans lost more than 1.3 million jobs over the last 12 months, while foreign-born workers gained more than 1.2 million jobs.

Explain to me like I'm 5 how anyone can look at how bad things have gotten in just over 3.5 years and say, "Yep, I'm voting for more of this."

Biden-Harris DOJ Sues Alabama Over Effort To Remove Non-Citizens From Voter Rolls

Opinion by Katelynn Richardson * Contributed by Franklin Motte Moreno Valley CA Read More @ Daily Caller

The Department of Justice (DOJ) sued Alabama Friday over its effort to remove non-citizens from the state's voter rolls.

Alabama Secretary of State Wes Allen initiated an effort in August to remove noncitizens from the voter rolls after identifying 3,251 registered voters that had been issued noncitizen identification numbers by the Department of Homeland Security (DHS). The lawsuit alleges Alabama's removal of voters from its state registration list within 90 days of the election violates federal law, according to the DOJ's press release.

"The right to vote is one of the most sacred rights in our democracy," Assistant Attorney General Kristen Clarke of the DOJ's Civil Rights Division said in a statement Friday. "As Election Day approaches, it is critical that Alabama redress voter confusion resulting from its list maintenance mailings sent in violation of federal law."

Clarke said officials around the country should "take heed of the National Voter Registration Act's clear and unequivocal restrictions on systematic list maintenance efforts that fall within 90 days of an election."

"I was elected Secretary of State by the people of Alabama, and it is my Constitutional duty to ensure that only American citizens vote in our elections," Allen said in a statement to the Daily Caller News Foundation.

The federal government repeatedly denied the state's requests for a list of noncitizens residing in Alabama, according to Allen's August announcement.

"I have been clear that I will not tolerate the participation of noncitizens in our elections," Allen said in August. "I have even gone so far as to testify before a United States Senate Committee regarding the importance of this issue."

"The Past, Present & Future; Where Do The Tribes Go? Keep What they Have or Return To The Government Having Total Control Over Them?"

In the 60'-80's I pissed off many a non-Indian by stating that Indians and immigrants knew more about American government than they did because;

- 1) the former had to live with it through their daily lives and
- 2) the latter because they passed the INS Citizenship Test.

This is the result of several things, the main one being that as a society we do not teach much history or civics any more. Many do not recognize a call to civic duty. Many do not see taxation as a form of social contract. Many think more is not enough. Many just try to survive in their own reality. Most never do try walking in another's moccasins.

Indigenous America had several forms of government, honed over several thousand years of living with the territory that often dictated organization and behavior in disparate parts of the continents.

The Founding Fathers were well steeped in the Roman and Greek history and traditions that challenged the imperial King tradition from which they - or their forebears - emigrated.

Albeit Ben Franklin was "elderly" at the time, but that gang of 30 year-olds, meeting the Iroquois Federation and others, carved out a "radical" experiment for the eighteenth century which we live and debate today.

It is not 1789 but some want voting rights to go back to only white, property-owning males over 22 being enfranchised.

It is not 1789 and while there is still farming and mercantilism, these sectors have become corporate monoliths and international, with profits at Headquarters, not circulating in the village.

It is not 1789 where post roads were desperately needed to ensure communication amongst the former colonies because we have new forms of instantaneous communication that do not rely on horse and riders.

It is not 1789 where the new USA's population was enumerated at XXXXXXXX and the native population was estimated at XXXXX (despite war skirmishes/massacres in the East) and the black population exceeded that of white in the South.

It is not 1789 when the young country declared (separation of church and state)

It is 2024 and we still nail opinions to poles and other public places.

It is 2024 and most are no longer separated from neighbors/colleagues by several miles thereby necessitating vigilance over public health.

It is 2024 and the society indulges in behaviors they once decried as savage and uncivilized:

- Several homes, depending on the season.
- Worship and utilization of the sun.
- Recognizing man is an animal, part of an eco-system.
- Conservation of flora and fauna.
- takes a village.

It is 2024 and we still are at war within. And the war machine is still the greatest part of our GDP.

Wealth is seen as amount of fiscal, not human capital.

Some say that civilizations last only 200 years and the USA is due for collapse. Others are stuck chanting "USA Number One".

The truth is somewhere in the middle. Where are you? Where is your community? What does your leadership envision? What world does your youth wish to aspire?

Old Indian prophecies do say this is a passing phase. The exciting - and challenging - fact is that (with the exception of nuclear annihilation) tribes are poised and empowered to create and forge an era wherein they provide the leadership and mechanisms to sustain their communities as well as others. Enjoy the journey! Make some more history.

Bernie Sanders told the truth about Kamala Harris trying to fool voters. Believe him. Read More @ USA TODAY

You may have heard Maya Angelou's powerful saying, "When someone shows you who they are, believe them the first time." Sometimes, when other people tell you who a person is, you should believe them, too. Especially if the person in question doesn't want to tell you who they really are.

That is the case with Vice President Kamala Harris.

In an interview Sunday (Sept. 8, 2024) on "Meet the Press," Sen. Bernie Sanders, a progressive independent from Vermont, said something about the Democratic vice presidential nominee that she isn't willing to admit to voters.

Host Kristen Welker: "She has previously supported Medicare for All, now she does not. She's previously supported a ban on fracking, now she does not. These, Senator, are ideas that you have campaigned on. Do you think that she is abandoning her progressive ideals?"

Sanders: "No, I don't think she's abandoning her ideals. I think she is trying to be pragmatic and do what she thinks is right in order to win the election."

You have to give the seasoned senator kudos for saying it like it is, especially because Harris has yet to describe her own campaign with such clarity.

'Pillowcase rapist' who admitted to over 100 assaults set to be released in blue state"

A community north of Los Angeles, California remained up in arms ahead of an Oct. 1 placement hearing for 73-year-old convicted serial rapist Christopher Hubbart.

"We all moved out here to get away from this stuff," a man identified as Bob said during a community meeting in Antelope Valley earlier in September.

"I think next time he's gonna escalate and he's gonna start murdering," neighbor Cheryl Slack-Holbrook had told Fox 11. "And people are not gonna put up with this. We're done with it...He got life. He should stay in the prison for life."

Opinions from locals like that were loosely shared by Los Angeles County District Attorney George Gascón who, while agreeing that Hubbart should not be placed in Antelope valley, appeared more concerned about the where of the rapist, who'd earned his moniker by muffling his victims screams with a pillowcase, than the release itself of the known recidivist.

"He is the most prolific and violent rapist I have encountered in 45 years of California law enforcement. He has been declared a mentally disordered and extremely dangerous violent sex offender," stated Smith who explained that the convict had admitted to raping over 100 women between 1971-1983.

At the time, the sheriff noted, "After being paroled in 1983, Mr. Hubbart raped a woman on the very day of his release. Mr. Hubbart raped nine more women in the San Jose area that same year before he was apprehended and returned to prison. He was again released in 1990, but returned to custody a short time later after he took a woman hostage."
